The Real Sunday School May Be Doctrinal But Is Never Narrow

Any Movement That Will Bring More People to the Sunday Schools Will Bring Enlightenment, Hope and Solace to an Ever Increasing Number.

By RABBITA MARTIN ZIELONKA, Pastor of Temple Mt. Sinai.

IGNORANCE is tyranny. The mind which is held in ignorance is held in control. This is true of all forms of knowledge. Ignorance of the power of individual initiative permits despotism; ignorance as to the value of savings allows oligarchy; ignorance as to the power of labor, organized for self development, creates sections; ignorance about world affairs and the living conditions of men, difference in color of skin, hair, or eyes, creates prejudice.

Ignorance about our own faith and the faith of our fellow men creates religious prejudice. The man who knows the wonderful story of his own faith, the struggle and suffering that gave it birth, the positive doctrines which it emphasizes and for which it stands, will view with great sympathy the religious of his own faith. He will realize that different minds may seek the same goal by different paths.

And such knowledge can best be obtained in our Sunday schools. Middle class surroundings, these emphasize their doctrinal viewpoints and instill a love of faith that means much for the cultural development of the individual. The Sunday school may be doctrinal but never narrow and self-centered doctrinaire. It cannot give the broad lessons of the fellowship of all men no matter what their creed. Thus any movement that will bring more people to Sunday school, true to its mission, will bring enlightenment, hope and solace to an ever increasing number. It will sound the death knell of ignorance and prejudice and summon forth freedom, the harbinger of mutual cooperation.

With respect to spiritual life, no one may say, "I know in whom I have believed." Other books present fascinating philosophies, but none of them can make us wise with respect to those great truths which center in God. The Book White God Gives.

This, therefore, is the book which God has given us. Pure, powerful, holy, marvelous, unending, indestructible. Still we do not walk in its light. It is great and high and scholarly enough for the most learned. It is the book that gives the transcendent hope of a coming King who will gather His own together, and reign with them over a purified earth, in which justice, grace and true brotherhood will abound. Remember, then, the words of the Master, who has said, "Search the Scriptures" and blessed is the man who finds there the secret of eternal life.

Parents in instituting into my mind an early love of the Scriptures. It is, my friends, the book to live by, the book by which to die, the book that gives the transcendent hope of a coming King who will gather His own together, and reign with them over a purified earth, in which justice, grace and true brotherhood will abound. Remember, then, the words of the Master, who has said, "Search the Scriptures" and blessed is the man who finds there the secret of eternal life.

BIBLE PICTURE QUERY—29

What Biscuit of Modern Use Is Mentioned in the Bible?

Curious and Unusual Bible Questions

Look at the picture above, then turn to your Bible and find the answer to the question. The picture illustrates the verse in which the answer will be found.

Each week we will publish an illustrated question from the Bible and the following week will publish the answer. See if you can find the answer before we publish it!

Make a family pastime of this interesting feature—it will amuse and instruct you.

Last Week's Question and the Answer

Last week's query: "Where in the Bible is first mentioned a people ruled by a woman?" This is answered in Judges, Chapter 4, Verses 4-5:

"And Deborah, a prophetess, the wife of Lappi, both the judged Israel at that time."

"And she dwelt under the palm tree of Deborah between Ramah and Bethel in mount Ephraim: and the children of Israel came up to her for judgment."

books, and even schools of thought, all systems of philosophy, over the centuries of kings, the laws of legislatures, all statutes and constitutions, over all pretense and authority that can be named. If all the objects in the world were to be taken away and the human race left in the wilderness, the only thing that would remain, and that the Word of God, for both east and west, "Heaven and earth shall pass away, but my word shall not pass away."

Bible's Literary and Poetic Value. The literary and poetic value of the Bible should not be overlooked. As a distinguished writer has said: "Viewed merely as a literary production the Bible is a marvellous book, and without a rival. All the literature of theology, philosophy, history, antiquity, poetry, law and politics, and even schools of thought, all systems of philosophy, over the centuries of kings, the laws of legislatures, all statutes and constitutions, over all pretense and authority that can be named. If all the objects in the world were to be taken away and the human race left in the wilderness, the only thing that would remain, and that the Word of God, for both east and west, "Heaven and earth shall pass away, but my word shall not pass away."

What Men Crave to Know. This is what men are craving to know and feel today. They want the assurance that God is near. They want to experience His forgiving grace and feel that He is with them to guard and keep and protect them as He did in the days of old. It is to find in God's Word a revelation of Himself in all His fullness in the person of His Son. In Christ we are to find the ideal man. How it helps and nurtures us in these days of uncertainty and dread to turn to one who knows and understands and who says: "Let not your heart be troubled, ye believe in God, believe also in Me. As we have believed Him we see things differently. We behold a God of all nations and men and we see all men as brethren."

Questions Men Are Asking. There are questions men are asking today and their souls are reaching to know. Is there a God, and how can we know Him? Is there life beyond the grave; does death end all? Can a man be delivered from the shame and anguish of sin? These and kindred questions men are asking today as never before. They are questions that will not do down. And we realize that God, in His Word, has seen fit to answer such questions. The Holy Scriptures reveal God as the great God of the universe, the Lord God omnipotent, "over all and in all and through all. He is merciful and mighty, slow to anger and of great compassion. He is the friend and helper of man. Best of all, He is "Our Father in Heaven." Now, where, but in the Bible is He so revealed?

The True Nature of Man. The Bible sets forth the true nature of man. Created in the image of God, man is free to choose and act for himself, and therefore a responsible creature. In the Bible we find him fleeing from God, following after strange gods, wandering away, seeking the things of self. He has no right to himself, still less to his own life. He is not lost. He may rise higher and higher until he reaches up to the fullness of the stature of a strong man, "a Christ Jesus." He finds that God "hath written eternally in His heart" and that there is "hope beyond the grave."

The Bible tells man that "though you sin sin he will not be white as snow," yet he will be white as snow. In the person of His Son, calling men to faith and repentance, and the new birth, He has written in His heart, "Heaven and earth shall pass away, but my word shall not pass away."

Other books have eloquence—there are libraries of the world's greatest writers, but no other book enables one to see God so earnestly stretching forth His hand, passionately pleading with man to turn and live. Other books have history, but none other tells the story of divine love, reaching back to the councils of creation, on down to the consummation of Calvary, telling the old, old story of Jesus and His love.

Others give us science, but none can give the soul a definite assurance of its future.

Other books have philosophy, but none of them can make us wise with respect to those great truths which center in God. The Book White God Gives.

This, therefore, is the book which God has given us. Pure, powerful, holy, marvelous, unending, indestructible. Still we do not walk in its light. It is great and high and scholarly enough for the most learned. It is the book that gives the transcendent hope of a coming King who will gather His own together, and reign with them over a purified earth, in which justice, grace and true brotherhood will abound. Remember, then, the words of the Master, who has said, "Search the Scriptures" and blessed is the man who finds there the secret of eternal life.
